Pam and her father

Pam: Why are you selling My Polly Pocket?

Father: Because you never play with it.

Pam: But it is MY Polly Pocket!

Father: Come on, Pam! You are not three years old any more.

Pam: How much will you sell it for?

Father: I don't know. Two dollars?

Pam: That is so cheap!

Father: But it is old, Pam.

Pam: I want six dollars!

Father: That is too expensive.

Pam: Then I will buy it for two dollars and sell it for three.
